

My Mosler Biography:

Paul Jeanmougin – I joined Mosler in 1959 after serving six months in the National Guard as a general accountant. Hired by Nelson Conrad, I worked for Ray Armstrong and was responsible for monthly closings and financial reporting. I was fortunate to spend over 35 years in various positions within Mosler, American Standard and in the ESOP Mosler. Mosler changed from a family owned company, to a public stock company to a subsidiary of American Standard Inc., to an ESOP company. During that time period, I was lucky to work with outstanding individuals not only in Hamilton, OH but also throughout our Service and Marketing offices spread over the United States, Mexico, Canada and Puerto Rico. I think of how lucky I was to work and play with many friendly Mosler People.

After leaving Mosler, I worked with Joe Patten at Le Febure to split LeFebure into two separate companies; one security and the other cash handling. Le Febure sold the security portion to Mosler and assisted in the transfer.

My wife Zita and I live in Cincinnati, OH and my biggest job today is trying to play golf and do some volunteering. I have four children and 6 grandchildren.
