

My Mosler Biography:

Jim Gels - I started my Mosler career in the Cincinnati office in August, 1971 as a Service Technician, shortly after my release from active duty in the U. S. Navy.

I was promoted to the position of Technical Specialist in August 1979 for the Mid-Atlantic Region, reporting to Ron Barnett and then Pete Moshinsky.

My next Mosler stop was the Bell Avenue Plant in Hamilton, reporting to Julius Dean as an Electronic Security Product Specialist in 1981.

I was the Technical Support Manager with varied responsibilities and many additional duties from 1983 through the close of Mosler in August of 2001.

I reported to Jack Smith, John Gazdik, Al Ryan and many others until the demise of our "World Class" company.

My wife Betsey and I live in Fairfield, OH and I currently work for Stanley Black and Decker as a Service Technician in their Cincinnati office.
